

Unsightly Newsracks: A Blight on our City

DAVID SUAREZ
COMMISSIONER

Common Uses of Newsstand Boxes

DAVID SUAREZ
COMMISSIONER

- Used as trash cans
- Used to store personal belongings
- Used for drug transactions
- Used for pet waste
- Used for tagging Graffiti

Safety Concerns

DAVID SUAREZ
COMMISSIONER

- Cut and trip hazards
- Unnecessary sidewalk obstructions
- Health hazards
- Broken Windows
Theory: Vandalism encourages more crime and disorder

Miami New Times Newsrack Locations

DAVID SUAREZ
COMMISSIONER

	On Public Property	On Private Property
North Beach	35	10
Mid Beach	19	36
South Beach	111	84
Total	165	130

Source: Miami New Times website

Miami Beach Historic Districts

DAVID SUAREZ
COMMISSIONER

- ★ About half the New Times newsracks within historic districts are located on private property, and will remain unaffected.
- ★ Neglected & abandoned newsracks on the public right-of-way don't fit it with the overall aesthetic and design of historic districts.
- ★ Approximately  $\frac{3}{4}$  of newsracks on the public right-of-way are located within historic districts.

Miami Beach Historic Districts

Financial Impact of Newsstand Boxes

DAVID SUAREZ
COMMISSIONER

- Very little income is generated for the city ($25 per box per year)
- Total of $4,125 per year based on current estimates
- Boxes are neglected by the owners
- City currently pays for all removal and disposal costs of destroyed newsstand boxes (labor and fees to unbolt, remove, and properly dispose of the boxes)

Environmental Impacts

DAVID SUAREZ
COMMISSIONER

- Waste of paper – Content is available online
- Print readership is low
- Most newspapers are not recycled

Conclusion

DAVID SUAREZ
COMMISSIONER

Due to the neglect and dilapidated condition of many of the Miami New Times newsracks, the City has a compelling interest to remove the affected newsracks from the public right-of-way and further regulate the existing newsracks.