COMMITTEE MEMORANDUM

TO: Public Safety and Neighborhood Quality of Life Committee Members

FROM: Eric Carpenter, City Manager

DATE: April 9, 2025

TITLE: DISCUSS REORIENTING THE CITY'S CODE DEPARTMENT TO ADOPT A MORE PROACTIVE RATHER THAN REACTIVE APPROACH TO ENFORCEMENT AND COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT.

RECOMMENDATION

The Administration recommends a discussion regarding the perception of the Code Compliance Department (Department) as having a reactive approach and the data regarding the breakdown of proactive versus reactive investigations. Once these items are discussed, we recommend to conclude this item, and hopefully the Department will have demonstrated their continuing efforts for a proactive approach to enforcement and community engagement.

BACKGROUND/HISTORY

On December 11, 2024 City Commission meeting, at the request of Commissioner Tanya K. Bhatt, the Mayor and City Commission (City Commission) referred agenda item C4 O to the Public Safety and Neighborhood Quality of Life Committee (PSNQLC) to discuss re-orienting the City's Code Department to adopt a proactive rather than reactive approach to enforcement and community engagement.

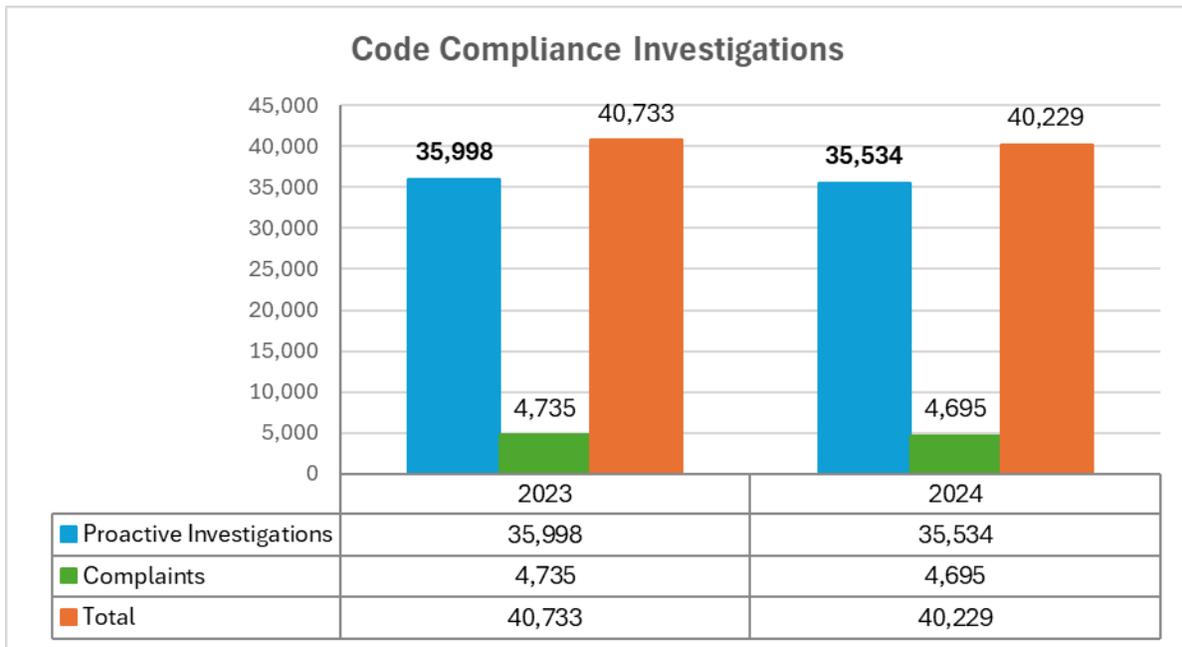

The item was discussed at the January 29, 2025 PSNQLC meeting and at the request of the sponsor, item to return to next Committee agenda for further discussion and for Code Compliance to provide a breakdown of the proactive investigations. At the request of the sponsor, item was deferred to April 9, 2025.

ANALYSIS

Code Compliance has transitioned over the years to a more proactive approach to addressing quality-of-life concerns, with the majority of investigations initiated by staff observations rather than waiting for public complaints. A significant evolution happened during and after the pandemic as the Department was forced to proactively engage with businesses and individuals as orders changed on weekly if not daily basis.

In both 2023 and 2024, an impressive 88% of investigations were proactive, initiated through staff efforts to identify potential violations before they become larger issues, while 12% were complaint-driven. This consistent approach reflects the Department's dedication to maintaining community standards and resolving issues efficiently, reducing the need for residents to file complaints.

Attached herein are the types of proactive investigations conducted by Code Compliance from January 1, 2024 – December 31, 2024.
