

Reshaping Doral: The impact of 10 proposed charter amendments on the 2024 ballot

BY VERÓNICA EGUI BRITO

In the politically charged atmosphere of Doral, voters are being asked not just to elect three out of five council members in the Nov. 5 election, but also to decide on several key amendments to the city's charter.

One of the most significant proposals, Amendment 8, could drastically change how council members are elected by eliminating runoff elections.

Currently, Doral's charter mandates a runoff election if no candidate secures more than 50% of the total votes. The amendment seeks to eliminate runoff elections, except in the case of a tie, and instead elect the candidates that receive the most votes, regardless of whether they achieve an outright majority. If passed, critics worry about the prospect of reduced representation, as candidates could win with less than half of the voters' support.

Jose Smith, a former city attorney for Miami Beach and North Miami Beach, and currently a special magistrate for North Miami, says eliminating runoff elections could increase the risk of electoral corruption. He said the change may lead to the rise of "ghost" candidates — those whose names appear on the ballot but aren't actively campaigning, with the goal of diverting votes away from a legitimate candidate to influence the outcome of the election.

"Democracy is fundamentally based on majority rule. While it may not be illegal to eliminate runoff elections, elected officials should govern with a majority vote from their constituents," Smith said. "The recent Frank Artilles case illustrates this concern, where ghost candidates can fragment the vote and mislead voters".

Recently, former Florida Sen. Frank Artilles was found guilty of campaign finance violations. The case involved political operatives and a "ghost candidate" who likely influenced a close election, part of a plan to help state Senate Republicans win District 37 seat in 2020.

Ivette Gonzalez Petkovich, one of the five members of the city's Charter Review Committee who voted in favor of putting the amendment on the ballot, said her focus was on voter representation — specifically, how many people actually participate in these elections.

She shared her experi-
